notification law in the state of Nebraska. And it tells you very clearly, if you will not be 18 by the time of your appointment for an abortion, the Nebraska parental notification law applies to you. It goes on to give you, if you plan to tell your parent, what to do. If you turn the page over, it says, if you do not wish to tell your parent, it tells you exactly what you need to do and where you need to go. Then if you turn that over, you will see that it gives you an 800 number to call if you need help, for no charge. It gives you another link for a request of judicial bypass form. So with two words and two clicks, any student in this state who needs to know more about the judicial bypass can get there. They can get the information, they can get a phone number to talk to a person, they can get a copy of the form that they need, and they can even link onto a list of the county courthouses, so they know where to go to file that. Now, Senator Chambers yesterday is quoted in the World-Herald as saying that there should be a place where credible, accurate information can be procured. And I would like to ask Senator Chambers a question, if I may.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yes.

SPEAKER BROMM: Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yes.

SENATOR REDFIELD: Senator Chambers, would you consider this as accurate and credible information?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: To be frank, I didn't read everything you gave us. But for the sake of argument, let me agree that everything is as you said that it is.

SENATOR REDFIELD: Thank you. I think the next concern that we would have as a body is whether in fact this was a site that might be found by the people who need it. And if you look at the number that I have circled at the top of the third handout, it says, 95,808. That's how many people have clicked onto this site. And I will tell you that one of them was me, to get this for you. So I think that this information is well disseminated in the state of Nebraska. It is available. We forget, because
